

Volunteering at JHAH

If you would like to have a positive impact on patients and healthcare, we have a variety of volunteering positions at JHAH where you can make a difference.

مرکز جونز هوبكنز

Johns Hopkins
Aramco Healthcare

Our volunteer services started in the late 1960s, with a few dependents of Saudi Aramco employees who volunteered their time at the Dhahran hospital. By 1982, the dependents were running a volunteer program focused mostly on helping young patients.

The program has steadily grown since and now has 200 registered volunteers who select to work in one of the following four volunteer programs:

Regular Volunteer Program

This year-round program is for people who have available time and are interested in volunteering on a permanent basis. In this program, you will be supporting staff or taking part in awareness campaigns, symposiums, and conferences.

Time commitment: Year Round

Registration: Year Round

Summer Volunteer Program

This program runs for six weeks during the summer only and provides a great opportunity for university students to find out more about working in a healthcare setting and the roles and responsibilities of healthcare providers as well as to give back to the community.

Time commitment: (July/August).

Registration: Application dates are typically posted on the website (jhah.com/volunteering) in February/March.

Cancer Support Group

This opportunity provides you with a chance to help a specific group of JHAH patients and involves supporting staff in planning and conducting community cancer awareness and wellness programs.

Time commitment: Year Round

Registration: Year Round

Short-Term Program

This program provides opportunities for students who need to complete a specific number of community service hours for their studies. Volunteers support a range of activities.

Time commitment: Year Round

Registration: Year Round
